“ACIMIT is a private non-profit making body whose primary purpose is promoting the Italian textile machinery sector. Italian companies developed new technologies for the global textile sector during the pandemic, from yarn to finish. ACIMIT started to develop sustainable technologies in 2011. At the heart of the project is the Green Label, a form of certification specifically for Italian textile machinery which highlights its energy and environmental performance. We aim to support the Italian textile machinery sector through digitalization and sustainability. We have also refreshed our logo that hints toward the sustainable efforts that ACIMIT is doing.”
